FOREWORD

This, our first Newsletter, is for a very special group of individuals, you and the other Friends of the Upper East Side Historic Districts. We are very proud of our accomplishments listed below which were brought about in a very brief period of time, because we followed the dictum that "Fools rush in where Angels fear to tread." And so, we did and managed to come out on the side of the angels...which is a minor miracle in itself. What we have done, we owe to your help and support.

MONITORING

FRIENDS' raison d'etre is to monitor the landmark districts and individual landmark buildings of the Upper East Side. As you might recall, immediately after the designation of the Upper East Side Historic District, three rowhouses on East 63rd St. were threatened by demolition and a new tower was proposed for the Frick Museum block at 71st St. Some of us worked on both these issues with success. These two crises prompted the Municipal Art Society to organize our community group as an active protective mechanism dedicated to preserving the historic district that the Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) had created. Volunteer community groups such as FRIENDS give invaluable manpower and assistance to LPC to see that lawful procedures are followed and that the architectural character of the districts does not disappear through gradual unapproved changes.

Since its creation, FRIENDS has devised a monitoring system of block-watchers and has developed a simple form as a model for other monitors throughout the city. Many of you as monitors have used these forms to provide reports of observed changes in our neighborhoods. Your reports were immediately forwarded to LPC and acted upon. Because of your work, many violations have been issued, and some cases are still pending.

Our monitoring system is in place. We have 100% coverage of the Carnegie Hill H.D., 100% coverage of the Metropolitan Museum H.D., and 80% coverage of the Upper East Side H.D. FRIENDS is looking anxiously for more volunteers to help monitor. Blockwatching involves just looking and filling out a simple form if you see anything happening. FRIENDS then investigates to make sure that proper, lawful procedures have been followed. Even if you are not a designated monitor but see something questionable happening to a building, please notify FRIENDS. Call FRIENDS at 644-2828 or Halina Rosenthal (Pres.) at 249-3434.

Reminder Before Spring repairs and maintenance occur, building owners and monitors should keep in mind that any changes to the exterior of a building in a historic district must have LPC approval. These include minor projects such as exterior painting, door or window sash replacement, storm windows or doors, repointing, and patching. Building owners must file with LPC for a Permit for Minor Work in these cases. Of course, other kinds of changes also require other kinds of permits. FRIENDS will gladly help building owners, cooperative boards and institutions with additional information and assistance concerning these procedures. Call FRIENDS at 644-2828.

EDUCATION

Education is very important. FRIENDS has come to realize that most people do not willfully harm their buildings. They simply do not perceive the importance of window style and detailing, paint color, and decorative elements of their building. For this reason, another mandated purpose of FRIENDS is to inform property owners of the legal procedures, rights and responsibilities involved in owning a landmarked property, whether it is an apartment building run by a cooperative board, a small brownstone, or a large institution.

A helpful booklet, "Lend a Hand in Historic Preservation" can be obtained from the Citizens Committee. It explains what landmarking is, the requirements for designation, and financial incentives for preservation as well as helpful strategies and resources.

Booklet available upon request, free if picked up, $.35 if mailed.

CAUSES FOR CELEBRATION

Zoning Victories FRIENDS is working to save our residential neighborhoods not only through preservation but also through zoning. A major accomplishment in this area is the banning of "sliver" buildings. FRIENDS was instrumental in getting this zoning law passed and in modifying the language of the resolution.

Under the revised zoning, building additions or new construction on lots up to 45 feet wide in residential areas can be no higher than the width of the street they face or of the taller abutting building, whichever is greater. The restriction does not apply to larger lots, which are subject to other zoning regulations.

FRIENDS also spearheaded the downzoning of Lexington Ave. We felt the fragile and narrow street was threatened to become the uptown version of the "midtown tunnel" with inappropriate, very tall new buildings. FRIENDS was represented on a sub-committee of Community Board 8 and the City Planning Commission concerning this and other issues. We are happy to report that Lexington Ave. has been downzoned to a more reasonable height, assuring the residents in the neighborhood of light and air.

Lever House FRIENDS is concerned with matters of preservation principles that have the potential of affecting the quality of a landmark or of a historic district. Therefore, we at times get involved in such general issues that may begin outside our immediate neighborhood but may set precedents which would eventually affect it.

Such a matter of principle brought us to the issue of the threatened demolition of the landmarked Lever House. Because there was no organized constituency for Lever House, FRIENDS felt compelled to speak on its behalf to keep this important seminal building which appears in every textbook dealing with contemporary architecture. We joined in the tremendous efforts, as so many of you did individually, to uphold the landmark designation of Lever House and to oppose its demolition. Winning was sweet, as we are sure you will agree.

Lever House Somewhere lurking in the background are possible modifications to Lever House. FRIENDS has gone on record with LPC to oppose those modifications which would turn our hard won Prince into a Frog. However, FRIENDS would have no objections to those changes that would enhance or benefit the building.

Zoning Existing mid-block zoning on our residential side streets is a constant threat to our neighborhoods. The original intent of R8 zoning on the Upper East Side was preservationist. Over the years, with the introduction of new zoning resolutions and the changing economy this original intent was lost. Under the present zoning, it is possible to erect in an R8 residence district structures of greater density, bulk, and height in the middle of a block than previously allowed, providing that a suitable site wider than 45' can be assembled.

FRIENDS has been in the forefront of the effort to bring about the contextual downzoning of the mid-blocks of our side streets in order to preserve the small-scale ambience and character of our area. Members of FRIENDS have testified repeatedly before the Community Planning Board, City Planning Commission, and Board of Estimate on this issue. Since members of FRIENDS made the original request for this legislation, we have reiterated our position that the mid-block downzoning now being contemplated for Yorkville and the Upper West Side be made generic and include our area.

Church legislation Legislation to exempt religious properties from local landmark and historic district laws was introduced in Albany in May, 1983--New York State Assembly Bill Number A-7942 and New York State Senate Bill Number S-6684. Landmark and historic district laws are local land use issues, not state issues. New York State law is enabling legislation only which allows each community to make its own laws regarding land use. It would be inconsistent for State lawmakers to extend a blanket exemption to laws which they do not enact.

FRIENDS strongly opposes the proposed exemption of churches from having to obey NYC's landmark laws. Such an exemption would seriously undermine all preservation efforts by setting a dangerous precedent for other broad exemptions. We need your participation, please call FRIENDS to find out how you can help.

Local Law 10 This city legislation troubles us greatly. Although it was created for a very good reason, i.e. to protect the life of passers-by, the law was hurriedly written in an emergency situation. Taking effect at the end of Feb. 1980, the law requires the owners of buildings that are more than six stories high and closer than 25 feet to the sidewalk to have filed with the Department of Buildings a detailed report on the structural condition of the facades. Immediately thereafter, work must begin on any measures required to correct unsafe conditions. The process is to be repeated every five years and to be certified by an architect or engineer. The unforeseen ramifications have been the stripping and demolishing of decorative architectural elements from buildings throughout the city. The effect on possible future landmark buildings and districts has been devastating.

FRIENDS would like to see the law amended so that incentives be given to the property owners who maintain and restore the ornamental architectural elements of their buildings, to induce building owners to restore rather than to destroy them.

AWARD

FRIENDS has received its first award! For the work that FRIENDS has already accomplished in the field of preservation, the award was presented jointly by the Citizens Committee, the Landmarks Preservation Commission, the Landmarks Conservancy and the Municipal Art Society. All this happened on April 9 at the Citizens Committee's Landmark Conference held at Hunter College. You should be proud of your hard work that led to this award.
